

Judging Criteria

Benefit to the industry (30%)

The entry must be able to identify the area(s) that the proposed element can be beneficial to the project and construction industry. The type of benefits that it can bring in short term (1-3 years) and long term (in 5 years), in particular, how it can bring forward a system / platform to inspire more innovations and innovators.

Originality (30%)

The entry should contain new and creative elements which are considered as innovative / pioneer in their own field in Hong Kong or overseas. The entry must be the original work of the applicant(s), with distinct and game-changing features over other entries.

Applicability (40%)

The entry must be able to demonstrate that its elements can be viably implemented with potential for wide adoption in the local construction industry, supported by a descriptive roadmap to achieve sustained implementation. The entry should include, among others, information on the current state of the elements, the technology, product and other development work needed to achieve acceptance and wide adoption in the market; and the financial considerations to sustain its adoption in the industry.