Ir Thomas HO, Chairman of the CIC added, “We strive for excellence to improve the technological level and safety culture in the industry. We apply the same mindset to the field of social service, craving to address the real need of the community. Through social service, we hope to forge solidarity among the industry and to spread our passion and care to every corner of the society.”

The Award recognises outstanding projects, organisations, volunteer teams and individuals participated in the Construction Industry Volunteer Award Scheme. “BOOKS for LOVE @ $10”, the Gold Award of the “Excellence in Construction Industry Volunteering Project”, has been organised for 11 years and has mobilised approx. 6,000 volunteers and community ambassadors across different generations to collect, sort and categorise used books, the books are then being sold at a charity price of HK$10 each to raise funds for two NGO partners to expand their services.
